envision a city where one can easily reach down and touch the water.

imagine a place where living, working and playing are linked to the unique natural resource we know as lake Erie.

consider the possibility that this resource can be experienced along a magnificent, continuous waterfront park system, from inland public spaces, fresh-water beaches or from tree-lined, pedestrian-scale boardwalks.

believe that with our collective efforts we can realize this vision, investing in this priceless asset to generate an irrepressible return not only for ourselves, but for generations to come.
